Glasgow. July 24. 1867.

Dear Friend, ¹⁹² My old friend Robert Rae has been consulted ~~with~~ in every thing pertaining to "Wards of Lunatics." I gave him a sight of your kind note sent from Mrs. Nichol's and of his own accord, he says - "my ~~own~~ reference to "Wards of L." is well worthy of publicity, when you print "notices of the press," if he presents the necessary permission." I am likely to go to press know with a new impression of the book, and should like your permission to quote ~~of~~ part of your own friendly words respecting the book. I have 3 pages of "Opinions" at end of present ed. The book is stereotyped, but I intend to make a few alterations. It's hardly fair to trouble you, but I thought it best to drop this line.

A. J. Stoddard gave me your Linnæus address & copy, but I sent it on to friend Roe by last post.

I put my pen carefully through the reference to your Marra, and sent me your note of last night to Mr Gutherie, and asked him to return it. He will prize it highly. I feel as I were getting too old for treasuring up such things
- although I shall keep your Shanty Lodge one carefully - and feel more anxious to enshrine gold in our true in our heart!

I should have enjoyed a few minutes conversation with you, but I made up to some extent, for it, by exchanging a few words with your sweet daughter.

With great esteem,

Yours in the cause of the oppressed & unfortunate, William Logan.

Mrs Lloyd Garrison.
